Message to the Community

As Oriana House approaches its 30th year of service to the community, there is no better time to recognize the essential role of community corrections programs in Ohio. Alarming increases in state prison populations coupled with a state budget shortfall point to the on-going need for evidence-based community corrections programs that provide accountability and rehabilitation at a lower cost than prison. Research consistently shows that lower level offenders are less likely to commit another crime if supervised in the community as opposed to going to prison.

In 1981, Oriana House began as a single program for offenders charged with driving under the influence. Today, nearly 30 years later, Oriana House has facilities in Summit, Cuyahoga, and Seneca Counties which offer a range of more than 25 residential and nonresidential community corrections and chemical dependency treatment programs.

While in our programs, many clients are required to seek and/or maintain employment; clients who haven't completed high school are able to prepare for and take their GED; some clients are referred to parenting classes or anger management classes; and clients with drug or alcohol problems are evaluated for chemical dependency and receive treatment if necessary. Our staff of 575 individuals are committed to helping people learn to make better choices and turn their lives around to become productive citizens.

We greatly appreciate the efforts, partnerships, and support of all who have helped Oriana House build a strong past, allowing us to continue contributing toward a bright future for the clients and communities we serve.

Continuum of Sanctions Model

Each step in the Continuum of Sanctions can be used in conjunction with one another or as a step up or down from one program to another.

Oriana House provides integrated rehabilitative services across the continuum of sanctions. Because many of the services are provided by Oriana House, offenders can easily be moved up and down the continuum, adding or removing restrictions as necessary, without interruption to programming. The continuum of sanctions in Summit County is a nationwide model for successful community corrections programs.
