

The professional staff at the Community Corrections and Treatment Center in Cleveland are committed to providing highly structured, comprehensive programs that assist offenders in returning to their community.

Clients receive intensive case management, substance abuse treatment, employment readiness training and placement, mental health services, cognitive therapy, 12-step programs, and parenting skills enhancements. Programming is designed to help offenders learn to make positive behavioral changes that contribute to safer communities.

Structured activities assist clients in developing a sense of responsibility and self-sufficiency; facilitate their ability to pay rent, restitution, and taxes; and provide opportunities to establish critical ties to family and community.

Oriana House, Inc.

2007 Annual Report

Cognitive-based programs serving Cuyahoga County and surrounding communities

718 clients served in 2007

6,088 drug tests given

413 new jobs obtained

Providing highly structured and comprehensive programs designed to assist in a successful transition back into the community

Accredited

CCTC is accredited by the American Correctional Association (ACA). ACA standards are the national benchmark for the effective operation of correctional systems throughout the United States. CCTC was reaccredited in 2007 following a two-day, on-site review of 252 standards.

Licensed & Certified

CCTC is licensed by the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction and has a dual certification in Intensive Outpatient (IOP) Treatment and Residential Treatment from the Ohio Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services (ODADAS).

Providing Accountability

Accountability is paramount to community corrections programming. Clients are tested for drug and alcohol use upon intake and randomly tested throughout the program. Chemical dependency treatment, education, employment services, and cognitive behavioral therapy give offenders the tools they need to become contributing members of their community.

Programming

CCTC clients are provided with a range of evidence-based programming including case management, cognitive therapies, mental health services, substance abuse treatment, employment and housing assistance, 12-step programs, parenting skills classes, and family support services.

Federal Referrals: CCTC is a Comprehensive Sanction Center for the Federal Bureau of Prisons. CCTC serves federal pre-release clients, federal clients sanctioned by a federal judge, or federal clients sanctioned by their United States probation officer. CCTC also provides pre-trial treatment services to federal defendants awaiting trial.

Halfway House: This rehabilitative program is up to six months in length and includes services to assist the offender in successfully returning to the community.

Parole/Post Release Control: Offenders placed on parole must meet strict program requirements as they transition back into the community.

Transitional Control: This is a highly structured, residential program for appropriate offenders who are serving their last one to six months of a prison sentence.

Electronic Monitoring: Offenders sentenced to their home are electronically monitored 24/7 to confirm their compliance with sentencing restrictions.

Cuyahoga County Jail Reduction Program: This program addresses county jail overcrowding. Offenders who are in jail may be eligible for early release if they complete a treatment program under the supervision of the Cuyahoga County Adult Probation Department.

Program Enhancements

Cleveland Transition Center (CTC): Through the leadership of Cleveland Mayor Frank Jackson and Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction Director Terry Collins, CTC was developed in 2007 to provide assistance for housing, employment, education, cognitive skills, and chemical dependency treatment to those returning home from prison. Services are provided in a residential setting with the goal of reducing recidivism and homelessness.

Fathers Matter: Developed in collaboration with Cleveland City Council and the University Church of Christ, this course is for male clients who have children and focuses on parenthood, responsibilities of fatherhood, and how to become and stay involved in their children's lives. The importance of all levels of support for their children is addressed.

Cognitive Skills: Cognitive skills class addresses the major thinking errors that lead to criminal behavior and ways to correct these errors. Moderate to high need clients participate in Thinking for a Change, a cognitive-based program that assists clients in changing the way they think, resulting in changes to their behavior. Low to moderate need clients participate in Cognitive Self Awareness to target the prosocial changes needed to improve their lives.

Employment: The CCTC employment program is evidence-based with a cognitive behavioral component that includes learning skills through role playing. Classroom sessions focus on employment readiness skills such as resume writing, interviewing techniques, and providing clients with communication tools to converse with potential employers regarding past criminal history.

What Works: What Works is based on the premise that if clients can learn to change the way they think, they can and will change their behavior to become more productive, prosocial members of the community. What Works provides services that have been proven to have a positive impact on clients' behavior and lead to a reduction in recidivism.

Faith-Based: CCTC has partnerships with several faith-based service providers and churches. Non-denominational services are available on a volunteer basis for all clients. Donations from parishioners allow for an on-site clothes closet and library.

Community Outreach

CCTC is committed to contributing to the communities we serve. Listed below are CCTC's highlights of key activities that took place in 2007:

- CCTC staff are key participants on the City of Cleveland Community Reentry Strategic Initiative Advisory Committee. This commitment to community reentry efforts has improved the interface of CCTC services with the reentry needs of the community. Reentry focuses on the successful transition of formerly incarcerated individuals into the community.
- It is a priority of Oriana House staff to be good neighbors in the Hough community on Cleveland's east side where the CCTC facility is located. Oriana House's Vice President of Correctional Programs in Cuyahoga County, Phillip Nunes, served as treasurer of the Ward 7 Club since 2005 and has been secretary of the Hough Community Council since 2003.
- Phillip Nunes and Oriana House CEO James Lawrence served on subcommittees for the Cuyahoga County Justice Reform Initiative that facilitates collaborative decision-making, coordinated planning, and cooperative implementation among all justice system agencies and relevant partners for the fair, efficient, and effective operation of the justice system.
- CCTC clients continued assisting with the Wilson United Methodist Church Food Pantry as part of their community service hours.
- Phillip Nunes served as president of the Ohio Justice Alliance for Community Corrections.
- CCTC staff continued to participate in Citizen Circles to create community partnerships that promote positive interaction and accountability for offenders upon release.
- CCTC sponsored neighborhood clean-up projects, a holiday food drive, and local children's registration to attend Camp Fitch, a YMCA summer camp, all benefitting the Hough community.
